There seems to be quite a movement among graduates of colleges who received their education on scholarships to repay the money to the institution when success in life is attained. An alumnus at Brown university has recently paid back scholarships for his entire course, and the money will be used for the furnishing and equipment of the philosophical seminary.

The treasurer has heretofore had much care, in fact, much greater than the total amount involved ought to justify. There will hereafter be an investment committee to assist and advise the treasurer in regard to funds, which will include the president of the New York Trust company and president of the New York Trust company and president of the New York Trust company and president Roosevelt, at a recent dinner in New York, made a suggestion that chairs in Celtic literature and language be established at various universities in the United States. For the pust eight years Harvard has maintained a department in Celtic, which, although unendowed, has managed to get along with appropriations from other sources. If the department were endowed there would undoubtedly be better facilities offered, but whether this will come as a sequence of the suggestion of President Roosevelt remains to be seen.

Coffee Market.

NEW YORK, May 28.—COFFEE—The market for futures opened steady at a decline of $250 points under moderate liquidation, mostly from Wall street sources, following disappointing European cables and larger primary receipts. Trading was very quiet at the decline and with a little demand from trade interests the market for futures opened steady at a decline of $250 points under moderate liquidation, mostly from Wall street sources, following disappointing European cables and larger primary receipts. Trading was very quiet at the decline and with a little demand from trade in the country.

CONDITION OF OMAHA'S TRADE

Better Weather Last Week Improved Retail Business to Quite an Extent.

ADVANCE ORDERS COMING IN FREELY

Sugar Market Rather Weak, but Coffee in Strong Position-Cotton Goods Quoted Higher and Woolen Goods Firm,

Weather conditions were more favorable last week and as a result both wholesalers and retailers enjoyed a better demand for seasonable goods. More buyers were in the city last week than arrived the week before and jobbers report a very fair house trade. Traveling men also met with better success on the road in their campaign for immediate as well as for future business. Taking everything together local jobbers feel that they have nothing to complain of. In nearly all lines they find that the volume of their business for the first half of May is fully equal to and in many cases in excess of the same period of last year in spite of the unfavorable weather conditions.

Reports from the country indicate that retailers are doing a very satisfactory business and that their lines are being broken quite rapidly. Of course some lines of strictly warm weather goods are moving a little slowly, but aside from these business has been of good proportions. As soon as warm weather does arrive there seems to be no doubt but what the demand for summer weights with be fully up to expectations.

There has been nothing startling in the way of market fluctuations since last report. Prices on practically all lines seem to be on a good, firm foundation, and so far as can be learned those who are in a position to know have great confidence in future values. They argue that the demand is fully equal to the capacity of manufacturers and as long as that is the case there is no reason for a reduction of prices, but on the other hand the tendency should be upward.

Collections are reported as being in good on the other hand upward.

Collections are reported as being in good condition for this time of year and no com-plaints on that score have been heard.

Sugar May Ease Off.

Sugar May Ease Off.

Wholesale grocers report the volume of business as being fully as good as it was a year ago at this time. The market on most lines is also in good condition, but the sugar market last week was a little unsettled. While there have been no changes on refined grades and a little firmer feeling on raws abroad, still local jobbers say they would not be surprised to see slightly lower prices. They say this, notwithstanding the periods of the year is at hand.

The coffee market was a little irregular last week, but closed in about the same position it was at the close of the previous week. Desirable grades from the old crop are now very scarce and command a round premium over the general market. The general impression is that prices have reached the low point and an advancing market will be experienced from this time on. That applies particularly to all grades of mild coffees.

The cheese market is a triffe lower than it was a week ago, but that was expected, as the production is now rapidly increasing.

affected by prices for fall delivery. Peaches have opened on about the same basis they did a year ago, with apricots considerably less to price.

The rice situation has been attracting considerable attention of late. It seems that the abnormally low prices, particularly for Japans, that have prevailed this season have given operators in the south their coveted opportunity, and it is understood that they have captured practically everything in sight in the way of Japans. Prices on Japans have aiready been advanced 1/20% on all grades, and still further advances would not be at all surprising to the trade. e. situation has been attracting Advance in Bleached Cottons.

The market on cotton goods may be said to be in a good strong position. In the last lew days prices on leading brands of breached cottons have been advanced by the property of the said to be in a good strong goods are equally strong. It is claimed that this advance is due in a large measure to extensive sales for export. In view of this situation well informed buyers see no opportunity for lower prices during the present summer season. Woolen goods of all descriptions are also in a good strong position and in brisk demand, so that the outlook for a healthy market on woolen goods is fully as good as in the case of cotton goods.

In regard to the condition of trade, local jobbers say that a large number of merchants were in the city last week and as a result house trade was of good proportions. Orders from salesmen, and also those direct from merchants, were liberal, the weather. As was generally expected, as soon as the weather became more seasonable, traveling men met with better success last week than they have of late in the dry goods trade is now very satisfactor of the dry goods trade is now very satisfactor. cess last week than they have of late in capturing future business. That branch of the dry goods trade is now very satisfactory and there is no doubt but what jobbers will have more orders for fall delivery on their books at the close of the season than they ever had before. The demand is general for all lines, such as blankets, underwear, hosiery, cloaks and duck-lined goods. Dress goods have also been selling exceptionally well for fall delivery.

The demand for hardware was again brisk last week, but the excessive rains throughout the country tributary to this market has naturally had a tendency to lessen the demand to some extent. In spite of that fact, however, sales so far this month have been up to and a little in excess of the same period of last year which jobbers consider rather remarkable in view of the condition prevailing. With settled weather from now on a brisk trade is anticipated as there is an immense amount of building planned in this territory, not only in the cities and small towns, but in the country as well, which means that there will be an enormous consumption of builders hardware and all such goods. This in addition to the ordinary demand for all seasonable goods, it is thought, will make this year the most prosperous of any yet experienced.

year the most prosperous of any yet experienced.

The market on staple lines of hardware is in just about the same position it was a week ago, no important changes having taken place. The market, though, is in a good, healthy condition and so far as can be seen the tendency of prices is upward rather than otherwise.

The demand for farm implements still continues very satisfactory for the time of year, both with retailers and whole-salers. Farmers seem to have plenty of money this year and as a result they are buying new and up-to-date implements instead of making the old ones do another season, as they are very ant to do when they are short on funds. The demand for wagons and buggies is also in good shape.

Fair Demand for Leather Goods.

Fair Demand for Leather Goods.

The demand for shoes cannot be classed better than fair. What is needed to make the shoe business brisk is warmer weather and when it does arrive an active demand is expected. The season is now so far advanced that summer heat is liable to arrive at any time and when that does happen dealers figure that everybody will be after light-weight footwear at the same time, with the result that in a few days they will make up for lost time. Merchants are naturally getting a little anxious to cut their stocks loose, but at the same time very few complaints are heard.

In a wholesale way, immediate business is a little quiet, the same as usual at this time of the year. A fair sixing up business though is expected a little later on. Advance orders are coming in quite freely, but an improvement in that line is looked for with the advent of a better retail trade in the country.

MISCELLANEOUS, the low point and an advancing market will be experienced from this time on. That applies particularly to all grades of mild coffees.

The cheese market is a trifle lower than it was a week ago, but that was expected, as the production is now rapidly increasing and still lower prices are expected. Nearly all the factories are now in operation and in a short time surplus stock will begin to accumulate.

There has been no change since the last report in the quotations ruling on canned corn and tomatoes, but there is a firmer feeling on the latter and a disposition to advance prices. The consumption of both corn and tomatoes is increasing and the surplus stock will doubtiess be pretty well cleaned up before the new goods are ready.

The pack of asparagus on the cost has been very disappointing, according to all reports. It is claimed that none of the packers will be able to deliver in full. Prices on red sock eye salmon, it is thought, will open at about 25c less than the opening prices a year ago. Recent reports indicate that the fish are beginning to run in pretty fair numbers in the Puget sound district and canners will soon be in active operation. The supply of pink salmon is practically cleaned up.

In the dried fruit line trade is reported as being active in practically all lines. Prices on peaches and spices are lower than they have been, the market being affected by prices for fall delivery. Peaches have opened on about the same basis thes.
